The Wayne County Commission Youth Council (WCCYC) is a youth civic leadership program. The Wayne County Commission Youth Council (WCCYC) is designed to involve youth, from varied socioeconomic backgrounds and multicultural neighborhoods, with opportunities to have a voice in their communities. By learning the roles of county government, and participating in civic and community activities, and while representing the views of the youth of Wayne County, the Youth Council will sustain their efforts to becoming effective leaders of the future.

This vision seeks the involvement of Wayne County youth in the planning, development and implementation of community activities and services. We believe that early involvement of our youth in the spectrum of governmental mandates and processes will increase their awareness and enable them to become more effective leaders. With the motto of “Create Opportunity Realize Success” the Wayne County Commission Youth Council will establish an environment in which the youth of Wayne County can learn about Wayne County Government, reinforce that learning through civic activities, and develop a foundation to lead in the future. Wayne County Commissioner Monique Baker McCormick, Chair of the Wayne County Commission Youth Council is the program creator and administrator.

Students, enrolled in Wayne County’s high schools from the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades, are encouraged to apply to participate in the Wayne County Commission Youth Council program. Selection is based on a completed application that contains the following:

- Essay
- Referral from a community member, school administrator, teacher, or civic leader
- Other considerations may include
- Student’s GPA
- Community involvement (i.e., volunteerism, clubs, youth groups, etc.), and;
- Students’ presentation during an interview process.

Applications must be submitted to: bakermccormickstaff@waynecounty.com by Sept. 15 at 5 p.m.. Applications will be reviewed and students notified of their acceptance by the student’s County Commissioner.
