III. INVOCATION

Chair Bell called upon Commissioner Garza, who introduced Baba Eliton Pashaj of Albanian American Bektashi Monastery, who provided the following invocation:

“With warm hearts, we come together in this space of trust and shared purpose. We start by remembering the Alawites in their search for wisdom, compassion, and justice. In the Bektashi tradition, we believe that serving others is a way of serving God, and that leadership shall always be grounded in humility and love. We ask that the divine light shine brightly in the hearts and minds of everyone here today. May wisdom lead your discussions, fairness guide your decisions, and mercy soften your judgments. May you find strength to support those in need, protect the dignity of every person, and work tirelessly for peace and prosperity for all, no matter their faith, background, or origin. Let harmony triumph over division, understanding over discord, and unity over difference. May this gathering be blessed with clarity, honesty, and bravery, always trusting justice. With heartfelt gratitude and respect for all others, we offer these prayers. Amen.”
